DUFFIELD MORGAN LIMITEDRowallan Castle*Kilmaurs*KA3 6JJ*Tel 01563 525440*Fax 01563 570048*To: - The Chair*Of: - Public Petitions Committee*From: - Niall A Campbell*Date: - 20th September 2006*Dear Sir*Rowallan Old Castle

I purchased the estate including the old Castle in 1990 to develop into a hotel, leisure and golf resort.

Planning permission was in place to change the grade A listed buildings, but not in the preferred format.

We also approached Historic Scotland to agree a suitable consent for the old Castle which has scheduled status.

By an exchange of letters it was agreed with Historic Scotland that we could proceed with a sympathetic restoration of the castle and terms were agreed. We considered the castle as an integral part of our development plans as the Castle sat in the middle of the estate.

We then applied for an all encompassing consent to include, golf hotel and a limited amount of housing as enabling the development. The local council - East Ayrshire Council - and Community Council fully endorsed our plans as it would give public access to the whole of the estate for the first time, and provide up to 175 full time equivalent jobs. This too was supported by Historic Scotland.

There was then a change of government and suddenly we found Historic Scotland opposing not only the plans for the Old Castle but also the overall development and forced what effectively we already had permission albeit in a different configuration and forced the project to Public Inquiry which was won on appeal.

We had excluded the Old Castle as it was a scheduled Monument and subject to a different process.

We duly submitted Scheduled Monument Application and Change of Use Application which was supported by East Ayrshire Council but Historic Scotland opposed the application and again forced a further Public Inquiry which was lost mainly on lack of detail. We had been wrong footed by Historic Scotland who had stated that until the decision on use had been established then it would be a waste of money producing such detail. As it was the building was deemed too fragile, and that as we had not produced sufficient detail to show that a conversion was able, and as such a diminishing of cultural significance.

This building has over the years been preserved by Historic Scotland but the work carried out has been in most cases completed to such a poor standard, most if not all cultural significance has been lost. In some cases the work is completely wrong. The roof, floors, windows are all new with plaster work removed and the stone raked and pointed in the wrong mortar. The building is a pastiche as a result.

We have now resubmitted a new application to enable the Castle to be used, and have employed one of the top conservation architects, (Simpson and Brown who recently oversaw Queensbury House) to draw up the plans and substantial documentary evidence which will allow sympathetic and non evasive restoration.

When the new Ancient Monuments Act was being drawn together Baroness Steadman - its promoter - argued that Guardianship was not a one way street. If an owner asked the State to step in to safeguard a property, if worthy it could, but also if an owner had sufficient funds to look after a building and asked for it to be taken out of State care then he should be allowed to do so.

It would be our intention to restore the building and offer public access on a limited scale, say 25 days pa. This represents 18 more days than currently utilised by Historic Scotland who have rushed to open the building this year for the first time since they took Guardianship in 1950

Yours sincerely
